

To,
Whosoever it may concern,

This letter is to testify the character and competence of Cris Fernando Anand Perez who was employed by me to work as an intern in the News Media division at Epicenter News.

I would like to recommend Cris on the basis of the dedication, work ethic and uncompromised quality that they bring to the table.

They worked with the organization from August to November in the year 2021 and the testimonies that I have received from their direct reports, colleagues and superiors is nothing but positive.

Epicenter News is a youth run organization, where the entire board is constituted of incoming college freshmen students who have a keen passion for the news media industry with a distinct vision for the future of news media.

Since hiring Cris, we have seen a significant change in the quality of work produced by the division they were employed in. Their efficiency in the delivery of articles as well as a substantial surge in the quality of the articles produced has been nothing but beneficial for Epicenter.

Cris has significant qualities of punctuality and an impeccable work ethic that makes sure that we never run short of articles to publish on a daily basis around topics that are of global importance.

With a strict commitment to the schedule over the course of their employment, there has never been a loss of quality from the articles that they have contributed.

To conclude, Cris has been an asset to the organization, not only contributing in the direct manner but also in an unconventional manner by lifting the morale of coworkers in the division and actively participating in a competitive journalistic environment.

They are committed to providing the youth of today with articles that are of the highest quality and are free of any bias.

Denzel Joyson,
Editor in Chief.
