EXPRESSION OF THOUGHTS

THE ROLE OF SCHOOL IN A CHILD'S DEVELOPMENT

School provides a structured education and promotes a child's mental and psychological growth. The role of school in a child's development begins as early as pre-school and continues through childhood. Aside from learning academics, a child will also learn other important life skills such as teamwork, unity, good manners and responsibility.

Children are like sponges they absorb all the things taught to them. By allowing them to learn in a school setting while they are young, they can be moulded into good, responsible and hard working individuals. Some consider parents to be a child's first teacher while teachers are their second parents.

School is the place where pupils meet their peers, make friends and establish relationship which may be very important in future life. Sitting in the classroom in the company of peers they learn faster. Schools also provide ample of sports and games. They also provide co-curricular activities like debates, recitation and quiz by taking part in all of these, children can improve their listening and speaking skills which are very important in a children's life.

Children learn more about their surroundings through their sense of hearing, taste, sight, smell and touch. Children learn the alphabet phonetically and enhance their reading skills by reading books. However, school is an integral part of life for every human being. It is been given the same importance as parental education. These two education can never be separated or replaced and are very important in a child's development.

Ms. Azhagu Shree Lakshmi (X-F)

THE GIRL CHILD

Girl education is highly important and crucial for the development of a nation. There is a very famous saying in Africa which goes, "If you educate a man, you educate an individual, but if you educate a woman, you educate an entire family." In the light of the above mentioned axiom, empowering girl child with education is the best and the wisest option a nation could have is empowering itself.

Empowering girl child with education is only panacea. An educated girl will have the power to make her dreams come true. Only an educated girl can earn her own living and be free in the true sense. With her education, not only she will be benefited she will spread the light of education all around her. Moreover an educated girl child ensured the surety of education of the other family members. Besides, educating a girl is the best investment. By educating girl child, the family is making a sound financial investment. When the girl child is educated, she will reduce the financial burden of her father and later her husband.

Ms. Jaydeep R Prajapati (X C)

YOU ARE BEAUTIFUL

In the world full of perfect contour glossy lipsticks & whitewashing compacts, you are still beautiful without all this, in your two ponies. The era in existence today is highly driven by attraction and beauty. Sharp cheekbones, hourglass body abs & muscles are the new parameter to judge how "beautiful", someone is.

People, especially today's generation, are ready to spend a huge amount of money to get that perfect cosmetic image, which is socially acceptable. A question arises with this dilemma. Aren't we free to be & do whatever we want? The answer to this is, yes. You can be or do whatever you want. And not what pleases the eye of the outsider. Researchers have proved that girls aged between 12-16 are under heavy peer pressure. It also states that girls who fall under this age group often starve themselves to maintain a slim body. This dilemma isn't limited to only females. Boys, especially teenagers in their school days are fat-shamed and are bullied for their puberty spurt. The root of this dilemma lies in the upbringing of our society and the endorsements celebrities promote. Children get highly influenced by the reel life. Parents should communicate with their children about this and tell them importance of being themselves. They should also make sure that their child is not getting bullied on the basis of appearance. They should also make their child feel acceptable in the eyes of his/ her parents, and not 'other' people.

Fat, thin, short, tall, dark, light, whatever & however you are, you are beautiful. You are acceptable by yourself. Because the real beauty lies within you, it is the goodness stored in your heart. Running behind surreal perfection will make you a sheep in a flock. You are unique the way you are. Shine from within.

Ms. Jaydeep R Prajapati (X C)

A BROTHER- SISTER'S RELATIONSHIP

Sometimes sweet, sometimes sour, just like berries, is a relationship between a brother and a sister. I am very lucky to have a brother. I can't imagine my life without him as he always corrects me whenever I make a mistake. But the same brother is always there whenever I have any problem. Sometimes, he is annoying because of his meaningless questions which he asks just to annoy me but at the same time, he leaves no stone unturned to make me laugh when I am sad.

In every house the story is the same – "the little sis vs bro" kind of fights but even more care for each other. Nobody understands the importance of brothers or sisters in life until they grow up and leave each other for some reasons like further studies, jobs etc....

"When your brother will go to another city, then you will really miss him." Always said my mummy but I thought like "Best!! I wish he never comes back" but when he actually went, it was like I became so alone. Even though I had friends, we played together but that was not that much fun that we had in teasing each other. Then I realized importance of my brother in my life. When he visited us in between about once in two months, he was like "Riddhi, you are changed. You don't hit me or fight with me any more." But when he came in his vacations for a long stay he said "you are changed again, you hit so hard."

We sisters don't just tie Rakhi on our brother's hand just for sake of rituals. It represents the love between a brother and sister, the care, the small fights, the fun of being together and the sour & sweet relationship between a Brother and a Sister.

Ms. Riddhi Pandya (IX-E)

NATURE – A GIFT FROM GOD

Nature is the most beautiful creation of God. We are born in the lap of nature and finally blend with it as we depart. Without it life is beyond imagination. It helps us in every aspect of life. It gives us the valuable oxygen to breathe, food to eat and shelter in its arms.

'Nature' the beauty of earth has given birth to great people all over the world through its inspiring message.

"There is no better designer than nature. To walk in nature is to witness a thousand miracles."

Every flower is blossoming soul in nature. The towering trees and the peaceful lakes are home to many creatures. But the selfish concern of humans, their action has an opposite reaction as it is wiping out the nature. So, now it's the time to make a resolution, to stop the pollution and create a solution.

"Everyday just plant a tree, surely there will be a day pollution free."

Ms. Akanksha Valeja (X-F)

MY IMAGINARY CITY

My imaginary city
It always comes in my dream
Where there will be no chaos and pity

In my city there will be jingles
Where animals and humans can play together
Together we live a happy life
There will be no space for acrimonious and anger

The chocolate palace will be filled with chocolates
With colourful rainbow- Red, Orange, Yellow, Green, Blue and Violets
My imaginary city will be a city of chocolates
Where all can eat to their hearts solace

The roads will be filled with green trees & colourful flowers
Where there is no vehicle pollution and smoke
My imaginary city will be a clean city
There is no place for filth and dirt.

My imaginary city, my imaginary city
Together we will make it heavenly pretty.

Ms. Saina Jena (VII-B)

MIRROR

Oh! I can see myself in you,
It's only me and nothing new.

When I was small,
You made me look like a doll.

And now when I am teen,
You make me look like a queen.

From my eyes, the tears that flow,
Carelessly, you make them glow.

When I have happiness waiting for me in a line,
You make my face shine.

You judge me I am heading for a party,
And show me whether I look nice or dirty.

So mirror,
How many poems do I need to send,
To make you my Best Friend ?

Ms. Prajapati Dhvani (VII-D)

LITERACY

A single alphabet can change a life,
It can teach a child to read and write.
Books are a source of information,
They have the power to educate every nation.

Give them this limitless resource of courage,
And allow the child to dive into the river of knowledge,
Let the fire of curiosity burn,
Let the light of literacy glow,
And create a spark.

May the young minds swim away from the darkness of illiteracy,
And may the spark ignite a world of awareness.
Come, let's take a pledge to make India a great nation,
Where everyone walks on a path.
From slavery to freedom
From illiteracy to wisdom.
So, don't just keep listening,
Start implementing!!

Ms. Vanshika Prasad (VIII-C)

CHILD LABOUR

India has many cases of child labour,
Can we reduce it and give them a favour,
Child is meant to read and write.

Let them fly in the sky as a kite, Don't you know it's their own right,
Come on ! For India we should fight!

Let our India take a flight, And be the next golden bird,
Let our children get their future bright,
There's child labour! Let's clean out this dirt!

Don't force the children to do work,
Make them happy by teaching them to learn,
Don't steal their childhood by not having fun!
Let the India rise as a shining sun!

Don't give our children such a torture,
It's a wonderful gift by the nature,
Why to give such a load?
When they could walk on the future's road.

I hope you all will understand, And improve the growth
of our motherland,
Show a child love & care, Child labour is just not fair!

Ms. Jiya Adalja (VIII-C)
