About me

I am someone who strives to be a lifelong learner and wants to create a destiny for myself. I want to explore the unknown, enjoy the journey of discovering natural talents that I possess and teach and learn with others along that pursuit.

As a person who aspires to make everyday count and believes that success doesn't come from something you do occasionally, but from what you do consistently, I want to keep working smart and thriving with street-smartness in my years to come.
