I was thinking of BSc Ag for graduation. I got to know about an exam named UPCATET which is a state exam but when I searched for it on net nothing was clear that do we get good colleges through it ? I mean there were many comments in which it was written that this exam is easy and has no competition thus do not have good colleges. Is it true? Should I apply for this exam or not as the last date is 31st March 2020.

People also mentioned that we should not opt for private institutions for this course whwhat is your view in this?

Also I am planning to give ICAR exam. Is it tough to crack it? Will it be fruitful to take drop and prepare for this exam if things don't go well this year?

I am not very sure about what are the courses and colleges for which I should apply . I'm not even going to score good percentage in 12 . I'm expecting 73% . I really wanted to go ahead with science but my physics cbse paper went really bad which made me think about my choice again.

most of the college forms are out by now and have their application ending soon. What should I do?

On the basis of the percentage I'm getting in boards (i.e. 73%) will i get a decent college for my graduation. What are the colleges i should apply for and also how to prepare for their entrances if any ?

I'm thinking of doing MBA so to be at a safer side was thinking of BTech in biotechnology. Is my choice correct for course? Please do refer some colleges with their entrances (if any) and how to prepare for them.
