

Your Personality

Your personality type is ESFP:

Introversion

Introversion (I) vs. Extraversion (E)

How we interact with the world and where we direct our energy.

Introversion

- Focus attention inward
- Enjoy tasks that require concentration
- Work best on one project at a time
- Work at a careful, steady pace
- Consider things fully before speaking

Extraversion

- Focus attention outward
- Enjoy a variety of tasks
- Seek out and need other people
- Work at a rapid pace
- Need to talk through their ideas

Sensing

iNtuition

Sensing (S) vs iNtuition (N)

What kind of information we naturally focus on and remember.

Sensing

- Focus on "what is"

More structured (finalize decisions) or more spontaneous (keep options open).

Judging

- Enjoy work that allows them to make decisions
- Prefer a predictable work pattern and environment
- Work towards completing their responsibilities before relaxing
- Like to maintain control of their projects

Perceiving

- Enjoy flexible and changing work situations
- Like to be able to respond to problems as they arise
- Are more satisfied with fewer rules and procedures
- Need to have fun in their work

Your Personality Profile

Friendly, warm and energetic, you have a large circle of friends. Lively, talkative and easygoing, your love of life draws others to you. You seek fun in everything you do and are at your best when doing things with people you enjoy. Realistic, sensible and pragmatic, you are good with details and have a great memory for the facts that pertain to people.

Sympathetic and eager to help, you try to avoid criticizing others and usually are not interested in controlling them. You use common sense to devise solutions to immediate problems and provide practical help to other people. Spontaneous and adaptable, you don't like to be limited by rules but are able to respond quickly to situations and handle several things at the same time.

You have trouble planning ahead, as you don't like to organize your activities and tend to live entirely in the present. This can leave you unprepared for events that you might otherwise have anticipated. While you are pleasant and agreeable, you may have doubts about theories or techniques with which you have no personal experience. Being so social, you are sometimes distracted from your obligations and can find yourself overcommitted because it is so difficult to turn things down.

Most of your decisions are based on your personal feelings and experiences, so you may not foresee the more logical consequences of your actions. You should practice trying to view things objectively, so that you can fully understand a situation and the potential effects of your choice.

For Sending and Receiving Communication

When communicating with others, size up the situation by judging people's posture, reactions and responses. If discussing serious matters, it may be necessary to tone down your usual exuberance. Similarly, try to be cognizant of people's need for privacy, space or quiet time.
You are good at providing others with positive feedback, but may struggle with disciplining people or providing

- them with constructive criticism. You don't want to hurt people's feelings. Understand that feedback is essential to help people learn and grow. Come up with a clear and straightforward message that describes the problematic issue or behavior and suggestions for how the person can deal with it.
- You appreciate supportive, non-judgmental feedback on your performance. It builds your self-esteem and helps you feel confident. But you may find it difficult to accept corrective feedback. Remember that constructive criticism is intended to help. It's not an attack on you personally. Try to view the feedback as an honest attempt to help. While it may hurt to hear it, the other person is trying to help you improve by pointing out a problem and helping you understand how to deal with it.
- More appropriate, ask for a demonstration, so that you can see what is required and practice it yourself. It may also help to discuss the information with others, as you learn best through thinking out loud.
