Your Personality Profile

Sensitive and idealistic, you strive for inner harmony. You are a loyal and empathetic friend, devoted to the people and issues you care about. While you may appear cool or detached at times, you have very strong and passionate feelings. You trust your personal reactions and perceptions and use your values to guide your life.

Curious about possibilities, you enjoy many creative endeavors. You can be an original thinker and like using your imagination. Personally invested in everything you do, you can be very persuasive about your dreams and ideas -- but only share them with people you trust. Thoughtful and complex, you are not especially interested in imposing your views on others. You are very protective of your privacy and highly selective about your friends.

When working on a cause you believe in, you can lose yourself in the project and neglect other pressing issues. You are very sensitive to tension and prefer to avoid conflict at all costs. You have trouble letting go of past hurts and may hold grudges. You tend to see only the good in those you care about, and risk being easily disappointed.

You need creative ways of expressing yourself. You are not especially realistic or logical, and sometimes go off course with your projects. A perfectionist, you have very high standards and may be unwilling to share your ideas until they are flawless. You can be hypersensitive to criticism and tend to take all feedback personally. Without feedback, you may fail to make necessary adjustments and end up with unworkable or unfinished projects. You need to ask for constructive advice and listen to it with objectivity.

Recommendations

The following recommendations are based on your results. Consider each and select the ones you think would work best for you.

For Learning Activities

- Open-minded, imaginative and questioning, you strive to understand motivations and possibilities, especially those with a human perspective. You likely enjoy reading and researching topics on your own, making connections and analyzing feelings. You learn best by starting out with a broad view of an issue or idea, exploring it from different angles to find meaning and connections, and gradually honing in on the details.
- You need time alone to study your learning material and figure out how it fits with your feelings and deeply held convictions. Take advantage of opportunities to present your ideas and exchange thoughts with others through brainstorming sessions and small discussion groups. You may also want to find a mentor a trusted teacher, advisor or friend with whom you can share and discuss things.
- You set extremely high standards for yourself, do very thorough research, and like to remain open to continual improvements. You may become so absorbed in an assignment that you lose track of other things that need to be done. All of this can result in delays and stress. Try breaking assignments into manageable pieces and set yourself a deadline to complete each step. Also, review the requirements and ensure your plans are realistic and feasible. If you're stuck, ask your instructor for advice and be willing to follow it.
- If you find the learning material uninteresting, think of ways to make the subject more personally meaningful. For example, how could it be used to help people or solve a societal problem? This can make it more relevant and appealing and easier to absorb and retain. Ask your instructor if you can use different methods to complete an assignment. Be prepared to suggest some alternatives.
- You like to receive regular encouragement. Let your instructor know that you appreciate feedback and like to know what you're doing well. Be prepared to hear constructive criticism too. Remember that all feedback is intended to help you grow. Think about how you can use corrective feedback to improve.

For Learning Environments

- Look for programs that are compatible with your core values, where you can be true to yourself and pursue your quest for meaning and harmony. Some areas that may be of interest include the arts, humanities, theoretical, philosophical, educational or humanitarian fields. You may want to investigate independent study programs, interdisciplinary studies and opportunities to design your own major.
- Look for an educational setting that is welcoming, tolerant and supportive, with an emphasis on cooperation, diversity and creative self-expression. Seek out approachable, inspirational instructors. Your ideal learning space is a caring, friendly environment where you can learn on your own or with a small group. When you need time alone to reflect, find a peaceful spot away from others. This might be a room at home or a quiet location in a public place such as a park, library or place of worship.

Participate in extracurricular activities that allow you to focus on causes or issues you care about and be able to feel like you're making a difference. For example, you could get involved with the school newspaper or a community arts organization, help out with a literacy program, volunteer at a local charity or offer one-on-one tutoring to other students.

Recommendations

The following recommendations are based on your results. Consider each and select the ones you think would work best for you.

Your Preferred Environment

- Provides you with fulfilling work that is compatible with your deeply held values and principles. You have a strong sense of social responsibility and need to feel that what you are doing is moral, meaningful and makes a positive difference in the world.
- Gives you ample time and a private, quiet space in which to create, contemplate ideas, and use your imagination. You prefer to work in solitude for much of the time, but appreciate occasional opportunities to collaborate with colleagues.
- Respects your need for independence and takes place in a friendly, supportive work environment that doesn't involve a lot of obligations, restrictions or supervision. You are happiest in a creative, congenial workplace that provides you with the freedom to make your own decisions and lots of control over your work and schedule.
- Recognizes your ingenuity and personal insight, acknowledges your special gift for understanding others, and values your commitment and desire to make a contribution.

For Growth and Development

- Be proud of your accomplishments. With very high standards, you tend to be hard on yourself and may fixate on your mistakes. Allow yourself to take pleasure in what you've achieved and try not to get caught up in how you could have done better. We all have room for improvement. That's what makes us human.
- Learn to say "No" and be willing to delegate. Overloading yourself with too many demands can lead to stress and fatigue. Take advantage of the expertise around you. Give tasks to others whose interests or skills are stronger than yours in certain areas. This helps to ensure projects are completed in a timely manner and that everyone has a chance to contribute.
- Work on your organization and time management skills. Sometimes deadlines and obligations must be met. Try to set realistic goals and practice more accurately assessing the time you'll need to complete them. Break your goal into steps and plan to accomplish each within a specified timeframe. Use a to-do list, calendar, whiteboard or sticky notes to set reminders and track your progress. Be aware, too, that you may tend to neglect your other duties if you're focused on a particularly interesting problem.
- When making an important decision, try to be more objective. You tend to rely on your feelings and may not consider fact-based solutions. Make sure you gather and analyze all the facts and details to assist in making your choice.

Communication

- Uncomfortable with large groups
- Hard to get to know
- Difficulty dealing with criticism

Recommendations

The following recommendations are based on your results. Consider each and select the ones you think would work best for you.

For Sending and Receiving Communication

- A good listener and deeply insightful, you have a remarkable ability to understand other people's motivations. You can use this perceptiveness, together with your other strengths, to support others, help them feel good about themselves and guide them in finding solutions to their problems.
- While you don't seek out the spotlight and aren't quick to share your feelings with others, you express yourself well. You likely excel at writing and can be a very capable public speaker when the topic is something you feel strongly about. You can use these strengths to promote your cause and help others understand and support it.
- You tend to be quite guarded around people you don't know well. This can make it difficult for others to get to know you and may cause them to see you as somewhat cold or distant. You, in return, may feel unappreciated or misunderstood. Look for shared interests that will help you relate to the other person, and be willing to open up a little about yourself. This can lead to a meaningful discussion and greater understanding.
- Supportive and encouraging, you likely provide plenty of praise and thoughtful feedback to others. You appreciate positive feedback yourself, but may find constructive criticism very difficult to take. When receiving corrective feedback, understand that it's intended to help. It's not an attack on you as a person. Try to focus on the problematic issue or behavior and make a plan to address it.
- While you enjoy being with people, you are most comfortable with one-on-one conversations and may find it tiring dealing with large groups of people. If you're exhausted after lengthy periods of interaction, spend some time on your own to recharge.

Working with Others

Challenges Strengths ■ Need to voice Driven to help others views Sensitive May be too selfless Loyal Avoid Observant conflict Easygoing Set high standards for self and Encouraging others Need to expand network beyond Diplomatic friends Respectful of Need time alone to others reenergize

Recommendations

The following recommendations are based on your results. Consider each and select the ones you think would work best for you.

For Interacting with Others

- Speak up more often about your needs, opinions and values. You may be very quiet while you listen to what others have to say and take in what's going on around you. Once you open up and begin to share your ideas, you can be incredibly inspirational to your team.
- You have the ability to see situations and viewpoints from all perspectives. In this regard, you can be tremendously useful in mediating difficult situations and helping to bring people together. You try to avoid conflict, but ignoring disagreements won't make them disappear. They can simmer and create lasting damage. While difficult, try to view resolving these issues as a necessary process that will improve things for everyone.
- Tension can leave you feeling emotionally drained. When dealing with a difficult situation, you may need some time on your own to reflect and recharge.
- Look for opportunities to build your professional network. You may prefer to be surrounded by like-minded people who you know well and consider to be friends. A more diverse network can lead to new career possibilities and a wider, more experienced support system. Networks should be mutually beneficial, so think about how you can help your contacts as well as how they can help you.
- You may have difficulty with people whose standards or principles clash with your own. You are deeply committed to your values and will vigorously defend them. Remember that others may be equally as passionate. Try to remain professional and respectful. If you can't come to an agreement, calmly accept that you have a difference of opinion and move on. You may also want to discuss the situation with a trusted mentor to gain further insight.
