- Need to have fun in their work

Your Personality Profile

Confident and assertive, you speak your mind and always seem to be sure of yourself. While honest and fair, you are also quite outspoken. You have strong opinions and are usually able to convince others that your position is right.

Friendly and comfortable being the center of attention, you probably have a large group of friends. People admire your determination and willingness to push yourself to achieve your very high standards.

A creative person who asks thought-provoking questions, you love to learn but are bored by repetition. You need constant new challenges to remain interested. You are imaginative and like to look beyond everyday routine to really understand why the world operates as it does.

Decisive and organized, you like to be prepared at all times and may find it difficult or embarrassing to try improvising. You like to be in charge, but sometimes take over projects that aren't really yours. You are frustrated by inefficiency and find illogical rules infuriating.

You want to be good at everything you try. You especially like to demonstrate your competence to others. People look to you as a natural leader and are often impressed with your knowledge. Others respect you and feel comfortable giving you a lot of responsibility.

Consider each and select the ones you think would work best for you. Your Preferred Environment Encourages vision, ambition and determination. Innovative, goal-oriented and driven to achieve results, you pursue your objectives with great enthusiasm. Your insight helps you to make connections and see realistic solutions to difficult problems that others might have missed. You thrive in situations where you can be creative, take action and initiate change and improvement. Takes place in a stimulating environment where you're surrounded by other competent people with whom you can discuss and debate new ideas and complex problems. You dislike routine and need lots of opportunities for intellectual and professional challenge. Is orderly and well-organized, with clear plans, directions and schedules — or assigns you the responsibility of developing these for your workplace. Gives you the chance to be in control, to supervise or to lead. A good strategic planner, you can easily see what needs to be done and have the skills to move your project, team or organization in the right direction. You are good at managing projects, assigning tasks and organizing people, time and resources. Uses a clear set of guidelines to evaluate your performance and compensates you appropriately. You like to be recognized and respected for your efforts and to have opportunities to progress in your career. Takes advantage of your forecasting ability. You are constantly assessing the situation around you, spotting potential problems, thinking about long-term outcomes, and figuring out how to avoid difficulties or take advantage of a situation. Your keen sense of the future can be very valuable. For Growth and Development Practice patience. You are so determined to get things done that you may be tempted to make a snap decision or urge others to settle things. For important decisions, ensure that all the necessary information has been evaluated. Remember to consult others and to consider the impact your decision will have on people. If a decision is someone else's responsibility, don't push or try to interfere. Be willing to modify your plans. Once decided, you like to stick to the arrangement and move on. But sometimes mistakes are made or important details have been missed. If you're presented with a good reason to change a plan, be open to it. Mhile you like to make improvements and try new things, be sure you can justify any changes you make. If an established procedure is efficient and practical, there may be no reason to alter it. Where possible, hand off detail-oriented tasks to colleagues who excel at working with facts or figures. You are more productive when left to focus on the broader perspective.

Pay attention to your work-life balance. You can become so focused on your work that you may neglect other aspects of your life and end up stressed out or exhausted.
