- Need to have fun in their work

Your Personality Profile

Friendly, outgoing and honest, you tend to have traditional, often quite conservative views and are comfortable expressing your opinions. You trust personal experience and are more interested in real things and immediate problems rather than theories or possibilities. Practical, realistic, organized and efficient, you seek to instill order and structure, and work hard to meet or exceed expectations.

You are direct and frank, like to keep busy and see tangible results for your efforts. You make quick, logic-based decisions and move on to the next task. Responsible and conscientious, you enjoy being in charge and organizing people and projects.

Somewhat rigid, you may try to force others to conform to rules and structure. Outspoken and assertive, your strong opinions may at times be perceived as harsh criticism. You may not think about the impact of your decisions on others until it's pointed out to you. You need to consider people's feelings, even if you do not entirely understand or agree with them.

Not particularly interested in possibilities -- especially abstract ones -- you may resist ideas that have not been proven by experience. Focused on the present and in a hurry to make decisions and get things done, you may not stop to consider any less-obvious options. To be more effective and make better decisions, you need to take the time to collect and consider all the information.

The following recommendations are based on your results. Consider each and select the ones you think would work best for you.

Your Preferred Environment

| Ш | clearly defined rules, requirements and standards to follow. |
|---|---|
| | Makes good use of your practical approach to problem solving and ability to maximize efficiency. |
| | Entrusts you with plenty of responsibility and control and provides opportunities for a leadership or decision-making role. With your competence in setting goals, making decisions, organizing tasks and supervising people, you are well suited to a leadership or management position. |
| | Appreciates your sense of duty, organizational skill, productivity and determination to complete work in an orderly fashion, on time and within budget. |
| | Takes place in a well-organized, active and supportive environment where you can work with other dependable, competent people. |
| | Uses a sensible, fair method of compensation for the work you do and provides opportunities to progress in your career. |
| | Praises your accomplishments. Knowing that others value your contributions and appreciate your efforts makes you feel respected and motivated. |
| | |

For Growth and Development

| Don't rush into decisions without fully considering the possibilities and the potential repercussions of the choices you |
|--|
| make. Consult others to ensure you have all the information, think carefully about the long-term consequences and |
| remember to consider how people could be affected by your decision. |

| П | Develop your ability to look beyond the present and immediate situation. Find a mentor — a trusted colleague, |
|---|---|
| | advisor or friend— who can help you see things from a global and future perspective. |

- Learn to be flexible and willing to accept new ways of doing things. While you tend to rely on past experience for quick, reliable solutions, new or different methods, though unfamiliar, may be better. Try to be open to the possibilities. If you're not convinced, ask for a demonstration or other factual evidence to prove the value of the new approach.
- Accept that, in spite of your best efforts, things aren't always going to be predictable. You're most comfortable when you know what's required and can stick to the plan and make it happen. However, at times it may be necessary to change direction or deal with a situation where all of the facts aren't apparent. So be prepared for some ambiguity and try to be comfortable with it.

Recommendations

The following recommendations are based on your results. Consider each and select the ones you think would work best for you.

For Sending and Receiving Communication

| Honest and forthright, you present your ideas and opinions with detail and clarity. Be aware, however, that being too |
|---|
| candid, especially when dealing with difficult issues, can be read as nasty or negative. Consider your audience and |
| temper the message accordingly. |

- Similarly, you may be very frank when providing feedback. In your intent to be clear, objective and efficient, you may tend to come across as quite cutting. When providing constructive criticism, remember to consider people's feelings. Think of how you can help the person understand the problematic issue or behavior, provide them with some suggestions for correcting it, and deliver your message with sensitivity.
- With a stern demeanor and dislike of small talk, you may come across as intimidating, unfriendly or indifferent. Try to be receptive when others engage you in casual conversation. An initial exchange of pleasantries costs nothing and could pave the way to a friendlier, more productive relationship. For some people, mutual respect and a good rapport are important ingredients in their effectiveness at work.
- Make a real effort to listen to the other person during a conversation. Acknowledge what they're saying, even if you don't necessarily agree, and don't interrupt. Wait until they've finished speaking before you reply.
