

Teachers are superheroes too

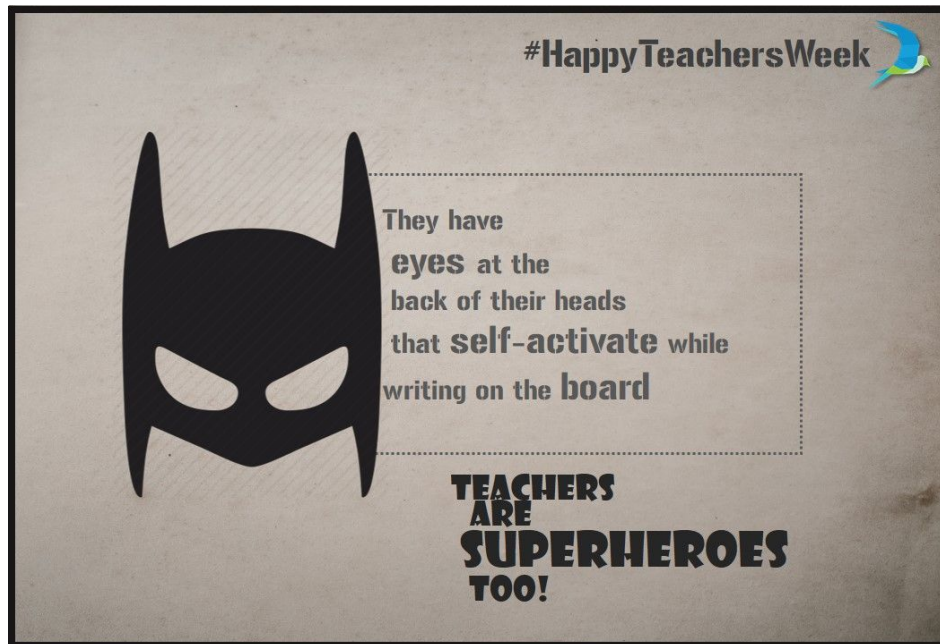

They leave their capes at home, step into the classroom and lead you to the path you are destined to be on.

Teachers are nothing short of superheroes, and we have the facts to back it up. Here's why teachers are Superheroes too:

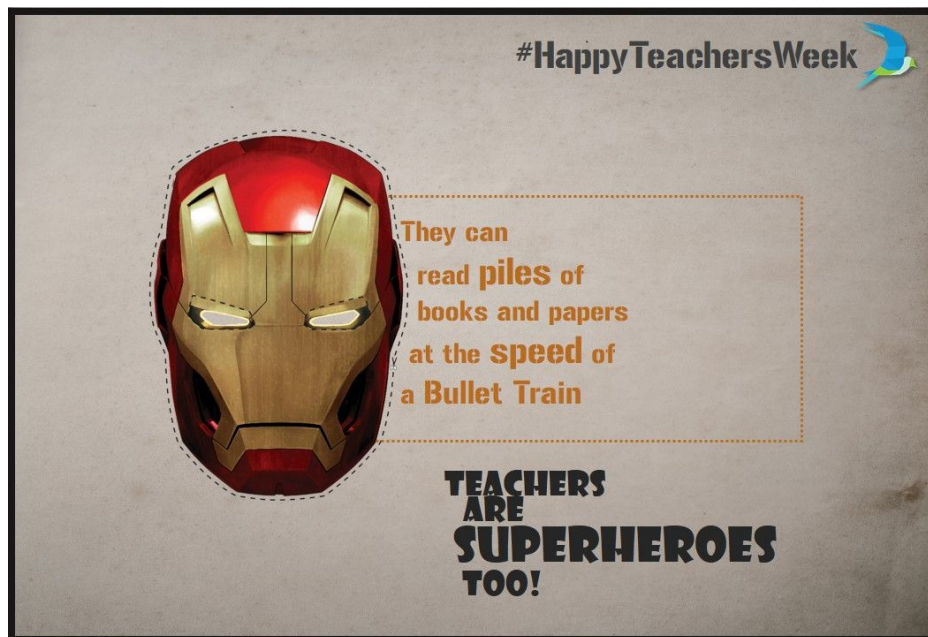

1. You can sit all the way at the back of the class in the right-hand corner, and your teacher will STILL catch you when you have a phone in your hand.

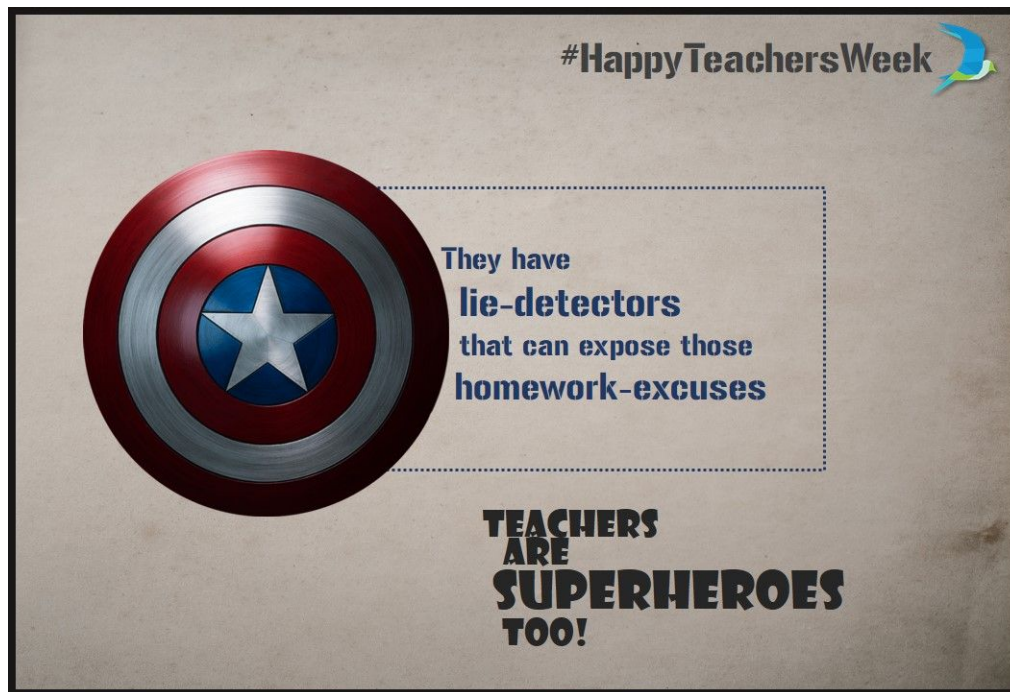

2. Remember those times you tried to pass chits in class while your teacher was writing on the board? They always know exactly what you're up to.

3. Books, examination papers, reports, homework, assignments, projects - sifting through these is a piece of cake for your teacher. And they do it so well, they'll remember almost every sentence you wrote.

4. The last person you should try out excuses on is your teacher. It is highly likely that they've heard the same excuse from other students for years now.

5. This one's probably the best super power a teacher has. They will believe in you no matter what, and all they want is the best for you.
